

Fujinomiya Trail

※There are 4 routes on the mountain. Be careful not to take a wrong descending trail.

Dear Mt. Fuji Climbers

Welcome to Mt. Fuji. We appreciate your good manners, safe climbing and cooperation.

- Mt. Fuji is the highest mountain in Japan. As the weather is changeable, take appropriate mountaineering wear with warm clothing, rain gear, a cap and gloves.
- Climb at your own pace. Forcing the climb in bad physical condition is life-threatening. Your body, especially your heart, becomes strained at high altitude. If you feel ill including nausea and headaches, give up your climb and descend the mountain as soon as you can.
- Take the roped trail. The ascenders and descenders walk the same trails on the mountain and the former has a priority in the narrow paths.
- In case of separated from your group, decide on the ways to contact your fellows beforehand such as exchanging mobile phone numbers. There are no communication equipments on the mountain.
- Look out for falling rocks.
- Carry all the garbage down the mountain with you including leftovers and plastic bottles, and keep Mt. Fuji clean.
- You cannot pitch a tent on the mountain. It is extremely dangerous to sleep outside. Always use the mountain huts. (Prior booking required)

Mt. Fuji General Information Center 090-2182-2239

◎Lavatories on Mt. Fuji

- * Keep the toilets clean.
- * The lavatories on the mountain are environment-friendly toilets.
You will be charged a ¥200 maintenance fee
every time you use one.

Two ¥100-coins are required for a use.

Published by Mt. Fuji 5th Station Facility Maintenance Committee